

ROGERS CLOTHES

THEY START THE WEARER RIGHT

The world welcomes a well-dressed man. It challenges the other fellow.

It isn't worth while to arouse prejudice, just for the sake of fighting it down. Don't do it. Start right—in Rogers Clothes. They make a man feel his own worth. They impress others.

The man of moderate means finds in them true economy—the rich man can wear no better. In business—among social friends—wherever a man's appearance counts—they lend an air of simple dignity and solid worth.

Every price of Rogers Clothes is shorn of every needless profit.

OUR NEWTOWN NEWS LETTER

Newtown, Oct. 16.—Cards are out announcing the forthcoming marriage of Town Treasurer Gustave W. Carlson and Miss Minnie Thickett, which will occur at 5 p. m., Oct. 26, at the Congregational church. The bride to be is a well known church worker, popular in social circles, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thickett, the well-known carpenter and contractor. The groom is erecting a residence on West street which is expected will be ready for occupancy this fall.

Rev. W. T. Guggenheim, it is expected, will supply the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday morning, October 19th. The reverend gentleman expects to participate in the religious services at the Congregational church celebration which begins next Sunday afternoon.

A neighborhood social will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick C. Lutz of Taunton district, October 30.

W. N. Weston who has been associated manager of the Castle on Castle Heights this season is preparing to return to New York. The castle, however, will remain open for the winter, but upon the reorganization of the Castle Heights Co., made necessary by the death of I. N. Radford, the principal promoter, Mr. Weston will return in the spring. In the meantime the castle will be under the care of Miss Vaughn the capable lady superintendent.

Morris D. Beers expects to enter the business life of Sandy Hook again, and is looking about for an opening for the market business in which he has had experience. The indications are that he will purchase the business of J. E. Blackman in a co-partnership is not effected between them.

S. W. Gledhill of Bridgeport, owner of the Mantle Mills property, has a force of men tidying up the premises. Again the community's hopes of the coming of some industry here have sprung up, but no information has leaked out as to changes.

The general store of R. H. Beers & Co. was the first in town to have the electricity turned on. The officers of the Electric Co. turned on the "juice" Wednesday evening, and the illumination attracted the notice of a crowd of pedestrians. Regular service is promised by next week.

Mrs. Evaline L. Pearl who has made her home for the past twenty-five years with her mother, Mrs. Arthur L. Peck of Sugar street, died Wednesday, aged 82 years. The deceased was well known to the older generation. Her funeral occurred today. Interment in Greens Farms.

Many friends from Sandy Hook attended the funeral of Jacob Wentch of Southbury last Sunday. He was a man of note in that community and had dealings in a business way with the Sandy Hook public. He was buried in the Pierce Hollow cemetery. He was 62 years old.

The Jewish Farmers' Association of Fairfield county will hold their annual meeting Sunday, October 18, at the home of Samuel Goldberg of Blanket Meadow.

The selectmen have decided that the bridge near H. B. Coopers, Botsford, needs widening to permit passage of teams. They also found the bridge over the north branch of the Pohattuck at Nichols' old shop in need of repairs. They expect to take action at once.

Attorney J. Robert Beecher, candidate for state senator on the Democratic ticket for the 25th Senatorial district which includes the town of Newtown is a young man with ability, a graduate of the law department of Yale University and practicing law in Bridgeport, Conn. The Democratic party has made an excellent choice in Mr. Beecher as he is very popular in his district, both with the old and young, and is progressive in views. He is a nephew of Judge W. J. Beecher of this place and is associated with him in the practice of law.

TRUMBULL

The remains of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sterling have been taken from Riverside cemetery and interred at Long Hill cemetery.

The Misses Sarah and Mary Lowe, Louis and John Lowe and John Widman have returned to their respective homes in Danbury, after spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Wildman.

Charles N. Everts is painting the exterior of his new house. Mr. Everts has had his well dynamited and now has a fair water supply.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson of Devon are the visitors Wednesday at White Plains school. Mrs. Thompson was a former instructor here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chase and family have moved into the Harry Maurer place in Nichols.

Work on Albert Christie's new house is progressing rapidly and the masons are preparing to put on the brown coat of walls. Mr. Christie expects to move his family in about the first of December.

Rodney Jordan of Albany, N. Y., is spending several days at White Crest Farm.

NEW YORK EXPERT REVIEWS SITUATION IN FINANCIAL WORLD

(The Baron Financial News Service.) New York, Oct. 16.—Close on the resumption of beer trading on the New York and Boston curb markets, and the inauguration of cash transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange, it is announced that trading for the week will shortly be started on the Montreal Stock Exchange. The expertiment at Montreal and Toronto will be watched with much interest by New York financial interests because the business at those two centers will embrace investment issues of international character, such, for instance, as Canadian Pacific. If the method proves successful it is not improbable that a similar movement will be immediately started here. There is a growing sentiment favoring the re-opening of the Stock Exchange for cash transactions, and the movement will receive impetus from the demonstrated success of the plan at points outside of New York.

Some idea of the condition of the steel trade in Germany may be gained from the following statement given out after the regular monthly meeting of the German Steel Works Union, held in Düsseldorf, Germany, about a month ago: "Domestic business is semi-finished steel since the outbreak of the war has been quiet. Production, which in the first weeks almost entirely ceased or shrank to only small quantities necessary for war purposes, has grown somewhat better since freight traffic has been partly resumed. An increase in the volume of sales is not to be counted on for the present since the domestic consumers, though they may be able to keep their plants running, are generally speaking cut off from the export market."

Earnings of the railroads of the United States in September, as indicated by preliminary returns, will reflect more fully the unfavorable effect of the war on business throughout the country than was the case in August. Forty roads whose estimated gross earnings are available, covering about one-third of the mileage of the country, report a decrease in gross for September of 6.88 per cent. This compares with a decrease in August of the same roads of 4.3 per cent, and in July 3.1 per cent. Final results for August, including all the roads of the country, were practically the same as the preliminary estimates.

Stockholders of the American Soda Fountain Co. have been informed by the management that the reorganization of the company at Portland, Me., October 20, it is proposed to change the company's name from American Soda Fountain Co. of Maine to American Soda Fountain Co. The 1-1/2 per cent quarterly dividend recently declared by the directors to stockholders of record November 1, is the first distribution to stockholders since the organization of the company three years ago.

The Toronto Stock Exchange reopened for cash trading.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels without gripping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottom. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by California Fig Syrup Company.—Adv.

JAPAN TRIES TO SIMPLIFY WRITING

Romaji-Kai Movement Seeks to Substitute Roman Alphabet for Ideographs.

"If I were to pick out any one thing that lies at the bottom of the difference between American and Japanese education I would point to the ideograph," writes Baron Nabu Kanda in "Japan's Message to America," a book of thirty-five chapters, each chapter written by one of the foremost men or women of Japan. Baron Kanda is the Dean of the Tokyo Higher Commercial College and a member of the Japanese House of Peers. It may be mentioned also that he is a graduate of Amherst College of the class of 1879.

In the chapter of "Japan's Message to America," of which he is the author, Baron Kanda points out that just as the introduction of Chinese civilization into Japan, which was about 800 A. D., the records indicate that Japan had no regular system of writing. As proof of this, he calls attention to the famous collection of ancient Japanese poems, the "Manyōshū," which were written more than 1,000 years ago, and in which Chinese ideographs are used phonetically to spell out Japanese sounds.

"Thus from the earliest times," continues Baron Kanda, "Chinese literature, with its wealth of poetry and philosophy, formed the foundation of our culture. It was the backbone of our education until, with the advent of western civilization, a little over half a century ago, our whole educational system was modeled after the pattern of west and all the subjects taught in the schools of Europe and America were included in the curriculum of studies."

"It is at that early stage, together with many other salutary reforms, the government had been wise enough to foresee the far reaching result of substituting the Roman alphabet for ideographs, though they may be able to keep their plants running, are generally speaking cut off from the export market."

Production, which in the first weeks almost will stand for the nomination of representative to the legislature. An election means the giving up of so much time—valuable time—should the nominee be a farmer. The primaries of both parties of late had this come home to them forcibly. One meeting was in session until midnight before the finish and the other party meeting had to adjourn over a day to get an available candidate, from a choice between two.

If the fall season is going to keep on being as summery and behind time as of the present, or in late past years, hunters declare that the open season for shooting winged game had not ought to commence much before the first of November. At this date the foliage in woodlands, is about as dense as in midsummer and there is but little successful shooting or even getting a sight at the wing, in the leaves and ranges. Meanwhile, nearly every hunter has to say "Oh, nothing doing but winging squirrels."

Monroe air and altitude makes it a sort of a "rest cure" for many people in the past have come here and remained long enough to regain health. The latest is the Van Cook family, at the center. Coming here three years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Van Cook were afflicted both with acute rheumatism as well as other ailments. Both have completely recovered. He is to return to the city to resume his calling as a stationery engineer and all the family are to go with him. Their place being for sale.

Monroe has opened the season for leaf fires in the woodlands and in a proximity to railroad tracks. Last week there were several such, but they were quickly extinguished. Large ones burned at Stepey, near Parson Rock and by the river, below Zoar bridge. The undergrowth and refuse is as dry as tinder, from the rooth of nearly two months and with the accumulation of falling leaves, the probability of damaging fires is greatly enhanced, from now on, unless we get a copious fall of rain.

The sudden and untimely passing away of Warren W. Bliss, East Village representative resident, will surely long be mourned by sorrowing relatives, many friends and acquaintances. "None knew him but to love him, none knew him but to praise." He was so compassionate, the soul of gentility and richly endowed with all traits that went towards making him "a man among men." In the several printed mentions of the funeral obsequies, an important incident in connection therewith, has been omitted, so it is here mentioned, as being worth interest: Rev. H. C. Woodruff of Black Rock, Bridgeport, who 26 years ago, united in marriage Mr. and Mrs. Bliss, attended the final funeral services and offered prayer speaking words of cheer and comfort in the hour of such sad bereavement. A near friend of the deceased offers the following:

Memory bells will ever ring
About thy peaceful rest
And recollections fondly cling—

The announcement of the engagement of Rev. E. L. Wells, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Guilford, Conn., to Miss Francis Richmond Rose came as a great surprise to his many friends in town.

The report that Mr. E. A. Bulkley had been ill was an error, as Mr. Bulkley has been far from being ill for a long time.

How welcome a nice hard rain! It has been just at this time.

Strictly fresh laid eggs are selling for 50 cents a dozen.

Mrs. R. P. Curtis, who has spent the winters in Bennington, Vermont, has moved to Southport for the winter.

James Smith of this town was entertained at the Parkway Farm, Goshen, by E. A. Bulkley on Saturday last. He was home with growing accounts of the place, and was sure there was not another like it in the country.

Dr. T. F. Caskey has gone to Ohio to visit some relatives.

Lots of Things Are Wasted That Should Be Saved.

"Whenever you talk with a foreigner who has made a study of the waste of the American nation is the most extravagant in the world," remarked L. L. Thompson, assistant manager of one of the large manufacturing of roofing materials in East Walpole, Mass.

"We are extravagant in everything, it appears. Forty years ago, for instance, and down to about two decades back, it was the common thing to find in the city and country a peddler with a load of tinware traveling the roads and lanes, trading the tinware for old rags, bones, bottles, or iron. Those enterprising merchants have vanished. The farm boy no longer saves the bones and the bottles and the old iron, nor does his sister maintain a ragbag. During the administration of President Arthur there was much alarm over the danger of importation of foreign disease germs in the rags imported from the Mediterranean countries. Later the rag business was transferred from Egypt and the south shores of the Mediterranean to continental Europe, and for the last decade manufacturers who require rags as raw material have been dependent largely upon Spain, France, Germany, Austria and Italy. Suddenly this supply has become exhausted, and the price of rags has gone up 100 per cent.

"Our company has upward of 4,000 employees, and recently we sent out a circular requesting that the members of each employee's family 'save the rags.' The reason is we cannot obtain rags at any price. Economies appears to have departed from the American household. In Europe it is still the custom to save all the odds and ends, particularly rags, and millions of pounds are imported from Europe to this country and used as the basis not only for roofing material, but as the component part of carpets and fine papers. Within the last few weeks I learn that newspapers have taken the place of rags as a basis for cheap carpets. Of course, these carpets will not be as satisfactory as the rag carpets our mothers used to make, but there is no other substitute available, and until the American people learn how many thousands of dollars they are throwing away by their failure to keep their rags, they may expect to find the market flooded with newspaper carpets." — Washington Post.

W. T. Greene, Hopkinton, N. H., writes the following letter, which will interest every one who has kidney trouble. "For over a year, Mrs. Greene had been afflicted with a very stubborn kidney trouble.
